Introducing King Office Services

In 60 years of relocating businesses, we've handled just about every situation from machinery to computer networks. And never missed a date. In our experience, every move has unique details and we're ready to provide a custom solution for you, too.

Not only are we the leading Southern California relocation service in terms of technology, we use what we know to give our clients outstanding value.

King Office Services can manage your move around the block, across town, upstate, cross-country or to the other side of the globe. We are the only office relocation service in Southern California that is owned by the employees. Think how motivating that is.

To get your relo rolling call 800 854-3679 x183.

We'll go far

If your move is long distance, we have affiliations that carry out our quality of service. United Van Lines is one of the country's most respected names, especially in household moving. The Commercial Relocation Network is the country's premier cooperative of specialized office moving companies. UniGroup Worldwide is one of the best-known and most experienced global relocation companies. Their standards are as high as ours.

Not your old-fashioned mover

In the end, relocation is still about people putting goods on a truck and taking them to a new address. But like everything else, the relocation business has changed.

King starts with QuickCube software. As we walk and talk through the job with you, we're entering data into QuickCube so it rapidly and accurately calculates your requirements: weight, time, crew, trucks ... everything. In realtime.

King invented a proprietary PlanRight™ project management system that breaks the enormous, complex job of your move down into actionable segments. And we assign a trained Project Manager to organize every single project we handle.

King has moved offices, libraries and file rooms, machinery, and laboratories. We have moved computers, modular furniture, and shelving. We pack, custom crate, and unpack. We use green packaging. We can store, dispose, or liquidate what you don't need immediately.

We offer complete, start-to-finish solution. Each relo is unique. Each gets our full, professional attention.

Strong backs and sterling character

Crew teams are hand selected for each project and must meet our stringent quality standards, including experience, professionalism and integrity. We never hire labor, "just for the day." As an employee-owned company, our staff has a stake in making sure each move goes perfectly. Maybe that is why our customers continue to call us back year after year. Our track record of providing superior move teams and top-notch relocation services is unmatched.

Delivering on promises

Since we opened our doors, we have completed projects on time, as agreed, for 100% of our customers. Our safety and claims ratio are the best in the industry, and our customers continue to rate us high in satisfaction. When our work for you is completed, we'd like to add you to our references. And we'll earn it.

Bottom line: all this and affordable

Our business is at least as competitive as yours. That's why we've taken steps to maximize efficiency while preserving quality. We know you have choices, and our goal is to show you the value so that King Office Services stands out in your mind as the only sensible choice. Like our motto says, we're The Best Move You'll Ever Make.
